I am Navy retired professional experienced in critical radar and computer technology.

Once migrated to Australia, it became my new motherland and worked as production planning and control engineer, at Curtin university and Murdoch for advanced manufacturing and environment technology respectively.

As a social person, I love to be part of community and playing an active role for its welfare. Food and funds donation to social organisation is my faith.

I am an environment guy, we call it mother nature, so the love and affection are my lifestyle.

Bad habits are not in my lifestyle, Hard work, honesty and love to land is instilled from navel services. Being responsible part of Australian multicultural community, I admire social people and thankful to community for Love and support I receive.

I am obliged and feel it's my time to serve the community full time. Giving respect and share values with other faiths is instilled from my religious faith so racism is a crime for me.
